

Position announcement

Closing date: Priority deadline for receipt of materials is October 30, 2016, but the position will remain open until filled.

Position title: Assistant Professor of Mechanical Engineering

Position summary:

Saint Martin's University invites applicants for a full-time tenure track position at the assistant professor level. The candidate's area of interest will preferably be in heat transfer/thermodynamics or materials engineering. Candidates with experimental interest in these areas will also receive preference. Exceptional candidates in other areas are also encouraged to apply. This position is subject to final budgetary approval.

The candidate must have a Ph.D. in mechanical engineering or a closely related field, and be able to teach a full range of undergraduate and graduate mechanical engineering courses, develop advanced courses in areas of expertise, collaborate with colleagues, and initiate and run an applied research program. Candidates with teaching experience, including laboratories, are preferred. Candidates must be willing and able to support the Catholic, Benedictine tradition of Saint Martin's.

The Hal and Inge Marcus School of Engineering at Saint Martin's University offers ABET accredited undergraduate programs in mechanical and civil engineering, and graduate programs in civil engineering, mechanical engineering and engineering management. The School recently moved into Cebula Hall, at the time the highest rated LEED certified building in the Western Hemisphere, and completed a new lab building 2016. A recent major Engineering Initiative has led to new facilities, a larger faculty, increased enrollments, and exciting opportunities for enhancing programs.

Saint Martin's University is located on a beautiful campus in Lacey, Washington, and enjoys access to major urban activities while retaining the best qualities of a small town.

Compensation will be based on experience and qualifications, and comes with a standard benefits package.

Required Application Materials:

- A letter of interest for the position that addresses the candidate's qualifications for our requirements and identifies which of our courses you feel qualified to teach.
- An up-to-date curriculum vitae.
- A statement of teaching philosophy
- A list of three professional references who can speak to your qualifications, including full telephone and email contact information.
- Saint Martin's University requires final candidates to review the university's mission statement and values. Finalists must write a brief statement which highlights how the candidate's work will contribute to the mission and values of Saint Martin's University. To better understand the Catholic, Benedictine Values in an educational environment, we are providing a link to a well written article on the subject:

<http://www.osb.org/acad/benval1.html>.

- Copies of transcripts indicating degree confirmation. Official transcripts will be required of the successful candidate.
- If you are contacted for an interview, we also will require your authorization to order a background check before any employment offer can be finalized.

Materials, questions and inquiries should be sent electronically to Ms. Hopie Lopez, Executive Assistant to the Dean: hlopez@stmartin.edu or by telephone at 360-688-2731.

The principles of the Catholic Benedictine tradition, equal employment opportunity, and nondiscrimination are fundamental to the mission, goals, and objectives of Saint Martin's University. The University does not discriminate in employment or in the delivery or administration of its educational programs, policies, scholarship and loan programs, athletic or other University programs on the basis of sex, sexual orientation, race, color, religion (except as a bona fide occupational qualification for certain select positions), marital status, national or ethnic origin, military or veteran status, age, or disability. This position is subject to final budgetary approval.